March 2019

Imagine, Create, Enjoy

Bits From The Board

At our last general meeting, February being our fiftieth birthday, we recognized the thirty two charter members of the Guild by reading their names aloud and indulging in cupcakes. It was wonderful to have Dixie Dugan, one of the original members, in attendance.

Robust sales at the Home Show were reported; 11 out of 13 artists had sales. A ten percent commission to the Guild helps offset our monthly speakers and other expenses. Thanks to all who participated.

Joe Quinn, an accomplished underwater photographer and artist, gave a fascinating presentation about the challenges and joys of shooting under water, a successful inaugural use of our new projector. Thanks, Larry, for pursuing this.

The Board met briefly afterward. Suzanne brought in a check from the SC Arts Commission, thanks to hard work getting an operations grant by Natalie, Kathy and Joanne. We discussed fund raising proposals by Barbara Blake and decided to continue to offer a special judge's award at the high school show in April.

The deadline for getting in entries to the juried show was March 1st. Good luck to all who entered.

- Carolyn Powell, President

Monthly Meeting

Our February 17th meeting featured a program by Joe Quinn. Joe is a professional photographer, artist and writer who specializes in underwater, nature, documentary and fine art imagery. His work has been widely published in magazines, books, advertising campaigns, and on the web. In addition, his works have been exhibited in the United States and internationally.

Joe is also a member of the Ocean Artists Society, a unique alliance of the world's top marine life artists, sculptors, painters, photographers and film-makers whose goal it is to foster an interest in the ocean arts and marine life issues.

Joe provided an interesting, informative and entertaining program that was enjoyed by all in attendance.

Our March 17th program will feature Joshua Knight, a recent graduate of Coastal Carolina University.

Joshua Knight bio -

My journey in art began late in high school. It was during my junior year that I took a couple of art classes and became addicted to the satisfaction of completing a drawing that had a likeness of my reference. My high school art teacher noticed my talent and helped me acquire commissions from faculty depicting loved ones and pet portraits. These commissions helped me realize that art wasn't only used as a form of expression of creativity and talent, but could also provide a means of earning a living.

After graduating from high school, I attended Coastal Carolina University, where I received my BA in Studio Arts in 2014. It was at Coastal where my love for portraiture and figurative work grew. I continued with my education and in 2018 received my MFA from the University of South Carolina. I am currently teaching at Benedict College and Coastal Carolina University. Teaching has never been something I planned on doing, but it's something that has, and will keep me involved in the art community and making art myself.

As far as media, I can't seem to tie myself down to just one. My work consists of a variety of media, which range from graphite and charcoal, to watercolor and oil, to clay and wood, and back again. I feel my media choice is in a constant change depending on my subject matter or what I'm trying to convey.

Regarding subject matter, my work tends to revolve around portraiture with symbolic objects or elements that deal with either others or myself. My portraits tend to be representational: on the realistic side, but not hyper-realistic, which I feel diminish the emotions developed through brushstrokes and other forms of mark making.

Show / Event Info

Myrtle Beach Art Museum

Elizabeth Bradford – Time + Terrain
1/2 – 4/28

North Carolina artist Elizabeth Bradford explores intricate formal patterns found in nature. Her paintings investigate landscape and the power of place, with special affection for the Southeast. Time + Terrain invites the viewer to study the natural world, to explore it deeply. The exhibition includes 27 paintings of various scale reflecting the artist's impressions of nature's complex beauty. Accompanying the art are eloquent commentaries written by Bradford detailing her insights and observations.

The Scape of Water
1/2 – 4/28

Some of nature's greatest scenic views are those of water. In addition to the numerous artistic styles and media employed to represent water—hyper-realism, abstraction, surrealism, minimalism or classicism in paint, graphite and paper collage or sculpted in stone—there are numerous points of view from which to compose one's depiction. Water and its environs are always changing—never looking exactly the same from one second to the next. Perhaps this is why artists continually, throughout the history of art, have turned to the waterscape as subject matter. The Scape of Water is a Museum Permanent Collection exhibition of works that portray water from a diverse array of media and perspectives, including aerial or atmospheric, linear and birds-eye view. We invite you to gaze at this very serene and meditative collection of art and ponder man's endless urge to visually portray this ever-changing but constant life force that both sustains and intrigues us.

Kate Hooray Osmond – Light Shine Down 1/10 – 4/28

Charleston-SC-based artist Kate Hooray Osmond shines her artistic light in this exhibition of vibrant, large- and small-scale paintings accompanied by the artist's playful installation work. Composed of oil with gold leaf overlay, Osmond's signature style is architectural in its bold and graphic use of line and color, as well as fresh in its perspective—the artist often employs bird's-eye views. A perfect blend of abstraction and representational land and waterscapes will delight the eye and ignite the urge to get out and enjoy the many views our part of the country has to offer.

Time has brought all of us to this moment of wonder. Take a look around you. Life is sweet and will shine through. -Kate Hooray Osmond
